Liberty Mountain GS Race Information

Event Locations:

Check out the map included in this document for race venues, parking, and amenities—your ultimate guide to the day's action!

Parking:

Heads up! There's no parking for GS race participants, volunteers, or spectators at Bubly Tube Park. While it might seem like the easiest option (especially if you're not skiing), a security guard will be at the gate to turn cars away. Instead, hop on the "scenic shuttle" from the front side to Bubly Tube Park and enjoy the ride.

Shuttle Service:

- Runs approximately every 20 minutes
- First bus: 8:30 a.m. to Bubly Tube Park

Race Prep:

- Best place to gear up: The front side of the mountain—it's got all the space you need!
- Chairlifts start operating: 8:00 a.m. Hop on the Alpine Quad to reach the race site.
- Lift tickets: Available at the ticket window from 7:30 a.m. for $65 (race day rate).

Food & Concessions:

- The Bubly Tube Park concessions will be open to fuel your race-day energy!
- The South Pole Concession is expected to be open, but hey, stay flexible—it's ski racing after all.
- Craving the most diverse lunch options? Head back to the front side.

Bathrooms:

Conveniently located at both South Pole Area and Bubly Tube Park—no excuses for skipping the race-day hydration.

Race Photography:

Two authorized photographers will capture all the action. A link to the photos will be shared after the event. And no, you can't step inside the B-nets to snap your own pics—it's unsafe for racers and could disrupt the race (plus, you will get yelled at)!

Timing:

All times after the first run are approximate—because in ski racing, something always goes off course!

See you at the race!
